Hello, everybody! Wes Penre here...We're sorry about the sound quality in this video—we have mic problems. The mic we bought didn't work, so we've ordered a new one, which will arrive within a week. Then, hopefully, it will sound much better.

This video is about my hat. Just kidding, but I do want to mention my hat because people have been wondering about it. It says Salida on the hat. What does that mean? Well, basically, the hat is promoting the little town Salida in Colorado (I've never been there), but someone pointed out that Salida also means "EXIT" in Spanish!!! Like, "exit the Matrix." I had no idea, but that's pretty cool—another of those synchronicities.

OK, onto the subject...

When we read people's comments, and from emails we get, we notice that people have certain images in their minds of how the Matrix looks like in comparison to the KHAA. That is if they look at these things from a birds-eye perspective. Most of us tend to create images in our minds when we read and listen to something, but in this case, we'd like to clarify a few things. We think it's important to understand what we're now going to say because it also explains why we need to exit the Matrix on our own—without outside help. As things are now, outside help would not be possible, even if the Queen showed up.

The physical reality, the way we humans perceive it, does not exist, except in our minds. The collective mind of our soul group is projecting this Matrix into existence—not only what we experience with our five senses, but also our emotions and thoughts about it. However, our reality differs slightly from individual to individual.

Many people want to leave the Matrix the way it exists today, but they also want to “take the Matrix with them,” without the Overlords and all this pain and suffering. Others want to stay here but resolve all the issues and then live in a paradise world—a New Earth, where we live in harmony.

This world is set up to have certain ground rules—it’s built with a certain set of rules in mind. This is Lucifer’s world—it isn’t, and never was, our world. He created this Matrix via us. He and his cohorts manipulated and infiltrated our minds, so we started seeing reality from their perspective—the way they wanted us to see things, so they could control us as easily as possible. These physical bodies have En.ki’s, Marduk’s, Ereshkigal’s, and Isis’ DNA in them—including the reptilian brain. They gave us their mind! Do we want to keep that, or do we want to exit and become ourselves? That’s an important question.

This is a world of death and decay—that’s how it’s constructed. This is unheard of in the KHAA—it’s unique to this Matrix. “He’s not a-busy being born, is a-busy dying,” as Bob Dylan sang.

You, who have read the Wes Penre Papers (WPP) and/or listened to our videos, know that our time is limited on this planet—Marduk is luring us into the Singularity, and En.ki is planning on coming down here as God, ruling this world until the end of the Age of Aquarius. Either way, we will continue being stuck here, so long as we stay ignorant as a soul group. Good-hearted people try to save this Matrix, but it has En.ki’s and Marduk’s imprints all over it. Even if people woke up and the Overlords left, it’s still their matrix—it’s their idea and their construction. It’s like physically disconnecting from a narcissist, but still keeping the mindset of the narcissist intact within ourselves, as if he or she never left. Instead, if everybody woke up to the crass reality we live in, more or less simultaneously, this illusion would dissolve, and we would have to start over.

And that’s what brings us to the point.

Why do we want to start over and build something that is very similar to what we have now? Haven't we already experienced this prison of the mind long enough? Do you think we can rebuild this world with our minds, quite similar to how it looks now, without still having negative attachments to the old construct? And here is the thing; if we at the same time got rid of our artificial soul, so that we became entirely ourselves again, we would not WANT to recreate this world. Why would we do that? The free souls would now think, "Been there, done that! Now it's time to move on and create something else." It's just the reactive subconscious mind/artificial soul, who wants to rebuild this Matrix. Once we become ourselves, we know we can create anything we want with our minds, and we want to move on—not stagnate or go backwards.

The Queen, and the star races in the KHAA, know what's going on here, but there is very little they can do. This is a freewill universe, and so long as the human soul group wants to stay here and hang on to this reality, which includes the great majority of people, this Matrix is going to continue existing, because we're keeping it in place in our minds, collectively and individually, including all the negativity we're experiencing. It's our creation! Very few people are willing to make major changes regarding their mindset when it boils down to it. They want their prison, and if we try to encourage them to look into the matter, they resist it with all their might—they want to have nothing to do with what we're saying. So long as this continues, the Matrix, the way it is constructed, will persist. A minority of activists can't change that for the great majority—it needs to come as a natural process, individual by individual.

Let's pretend that the Queen comes here and tries to liberate us. How would She do that, if people would resist Her and possibly even fight her? People will hold on to their mind's creation until their last breath. Now, let's say that the Queen took this place by force, defeated the Overlords, and then invited the entire human soul group to Orion. How would that possibly work, if almost all people are keeping their images of this Matrix alive in their mind?

There is no time and space, so it would be a matter of changing people's perspective, or no one would be able to go to Orion. Orion is not real to people. And even if time and space were real, and 8 billion people were changing location from Earth to a star system in Orion, what would happen? 8 billion people would bring this Matrix with them because this Matrix is all that exists in their minds. They wouldn't be able to perceive Orion, which exists on another vibration. Would the star races in the KHAA want humanity to bring this Matrix into Orion? No way! Would they want 8 billion souls act like crazy children in the midst of Orion and create havoc there? No way!

This Matrix is not a “physical location;” it's something we, the human soul group, have created with our minds, from being influenced by the Overlord. Dragging us to Orion would be like bringing a completely delusional person into our home—a person who can't see us, hear us, sense us, but only live in his or her own little world inside the head. He or she would be totally alienated from our reality. A transition to Orion would not work for the human soul group, unless they come to the same insights we have come to, and unless they are willing to let go of what they've created in their own minds—this Matrix of pain and suffering.

Can you start seeing the complexity of this? We need to stop thinking about the KHAA and the Matrix as physical locations in space and time—everything that exists, here or on the KHAA, exists because it's created by souls, using their minds to create it. Therefore, we are all also potentially able to uncreate it—just like Q in Star Trek. Again, our Matrix is not a location, it's a vibration. If someone wants to perceive our Matrix from “outside,” they need to meet the overall vibration of this planet, or they won't find us. They can't take a spaceship and bump into our planet, or the Grid—they would travel right through it because they are not in our frequency band/dimension/density...whatever we prefer to call it. They need to match the vibration. Our Matrix is not an oasis in space—it's a vibration, and it's in our collective minds—it's a prison of the mind.

Nobody, including the Queen, can do this for us—it HAS to be our own responsibility. Not because no one cares, but because we are creator gods—we decide which creation we want to live in, and at this moment, this Matrix is the creation humanity wants to live in. We have freewill of choice, and people choose to stay in their own prison.

Some might say, “This is not fair. People don’t know!” It has nothing to do with fairness—we have created this reality, and the only ones who CAN uncreate it is us. With all the good will in the Universe, no one else can do it for us—particularly as we don’t want them to. Humanity would resist it. Also, Ariel, Wes, and everybody who knows this and takes it to heart can exit this Matrix. If we can, everybody can—it’s just a matter of freewill of choice.

We can’t blame the Queen for this, either. She had certain purposes with this Experiment, and these purposes were pro-survival and for the expansion of the entire Universe. She is not responsible for what Her son and grandson are doing, and She is not responsible for our own creations, either. In this Universe, every soul is ultimately responsible for themselves—it wouldn’t work any other way. The Queen had no way of knowing that things would take this turn, but now that it has, we all need to take responsibility—both for our naivety and to uncreate what we’ve created in our minds, as well as En.ki and his cohorts have their own responsibilities to confront.
