Greetings, this is Wes Penre and here is a new Q&A Session! Thank you very much for sending in your questions—and they are really good ones, too! If more people want to send in, you can submit them at wespenreproductions@gmail.com. This is our 30th session (wow!), so let's start with the first question.

Question 1: Can you give me your opinion of John Lamb Lash and Duane Heppner. I can see truth in what they present but as always doubts are creeping in. It seems to me it's critical that we don't get misled anymore. Maybe, we can only fully trust what's inside ourselves.

Answer: Many people ask us what we think about other researchers (understandably so), and sometimes we have replied. However, we have decided to stop doing that for a reason. We could of course express our opinion, but it's not very helpful. We also understand that people are asking because they might trust us, but we can be wrong, as well.

First, all we express is our opinion, and we don't want our opinion to decide whether you should investigate a certain researcher's information or not. Second, if people ask us these questions, they don't learn to use their own discernment, which is very important! If you're being drawn to something, check it out and decide whether it's useful information or not. Use what you already think you know and see if it fits in. Sometimes, you might get new insights, discarding parts you already thought you knew, and you need to begin rethinking previous conclusions. This is perfectly in order. Don't be afraid to be wrong—finding truth is often an exhausting task, but it gets easier and easier. The trick is to learn to use discernment and intuition. Does it feel right? If so, consider incorporating it—you can always change your mind later, as you add new data from elsewhere. It's like laying a puzzle—sometimes a piece seems to fit, but it later proves to have been the wrong piece, but sometimes it fits right in. We're all going through this, as you can see in our videos, which show our progress—sometimes, after having considered new info, we have changed our minds. So, 1) use your discernment, 2) use intuition 3) see if the data fits, and 4) if you're drawn to it, there is probably something there that you need to learn—even if it's just discernment.

Question 2: You say that it's wrong to say, that we are currently living in a "soul school", where we evolve from low spiritual knowledge to high spiritual knowledge, as we were always royal/creator gods from the start. But if this is the case, there was still the original experiment? If we were "perfect" from the start, why did the queen even start with the experiment on Tiamaat? So somehow there seems to be still potential for us to grow wiser/better as a creator god (maybe even here in this patrix)?

Answer: As Spirits, we were already evolved—we were all-knowing to start with, which means we knew everything there was to know at that point, until the VOID was created (see the "Big Picture Series" on this video channel). The Queen (whom we are spirit splinters from), then created new potentials by creating individuated souls in the VOID/KHAA. Now, things became unknown because each soul started creating and interacting individually, using their own unit of consciousness. Later, the Queen decided to create an experiment to attach Her Spirit to a soul group and let them evolve on a planet (Tiamaat). She wanted to know if souls, whom are attached to Spirit, can graduate from such an experiment with more compassion, love, and understanding, even though the environment sometimes can be harsh because of the physical environment. So, evolution did occur on Tiamaat, but we didn't die, and we had no amnesia. Thus, we always brought our experiences with us, having full memories. Spirit does not engage in the KHAA—Spirit is an Observer. We need an avatar, i.e. a soul, and sometimes a physical body, in order to interact in the Universe (KHAA).

Yes, we do learn things here in the Patrix Construct, too, but we usually learn from pain, which is not the best way to learn. Moreover, we only learn things related to the Patrix. If we compare this with mice, for example, there are wild mice, who can run freely in nature and do their thing (signifying us on Tiamaat), and these mice will learn as they go along. Suddenly, these mice get trapped in a cage and start running around and around in circles on a mouse-wheel (us in the Patrix). They will learn all they need to function in the cage and they learn how the wheel works, but is that really constructive learning?

Question 3: If there do not exist any differences between old and young souls, and only spirited souls long for their home and so they question reality and research... then there exist only few spirited souls here? Can't believe we are the only spirited souls?? I mean, why do I begin to research and question reality within my early 20ies, while the majority of humankind never question life in their entire life... thought it would have to do with the age of the soul. But if every spirited soul is researching, we must be a very little Soul Group then? I don't understand that point. Why do some awake and others don't, if it has nothing to do with the Number of Reincarnation or with the amount of gained wisdom? You once said that coincidence does not exist, so there must be another reason? Thanks for your help... (regarding Q&A 27)

Answer: We don't know exactly how many spirited souls are here, but let's pretend it's only about 10%--that's still 800 million+ spirited souls. As we know, far from that number of souls are awake here—only a fraction of that. We, the spirited souls, are in minority in this Construct, according to our conclusions, which doesn't mean that the rest of the population is evil. En.ki has captured a lot of souls from outside the Patrix, and the rest are En.ki's synthetic souls, whom some researchers call "empty vessels." These are the ones we often call narcissists, psychopaths, and sociopaths. However, we need to be spirited to be genuinely interested in finding out who we are, where we're going, the nature of reality, and all the rest of it. The rest of the Earth population has no interest in looking into these things because they don't think there is anything to it. Convinced atheists often fall into the synthetic soul category, and they "know" that there is no afterlife—and they're correct...there is no afterlife for them, as they will perish after body death.

Many spirited souls might not wake up until it's too late. They are too far gone and too absorbed by the Patrix.

Question 4: I am constantly torn between having a lot of emotions and being emotionless. The problem is: if you have too much emotions, you create a lot of tasty energy for them to eat. But if you begin to get more and more colder and without emotion. You become one of them, a coldhearted robot. So, what's better or worse?

Answer: Yes, you are correct—this is how it is for most people. However, we can choose whether we want to feed the gods and the narcissists with our emotions or not. It's nothing wrong with having emotions—it's the vampirism that is wrong. So, how do we avoid feeding others our energy? We do it by learning about how this Construct works and how the gods think—continuous research, in other words. After some time, you'll see the difference between YOU (Spirit), SOUL (your true avatar) and SYNTHETIC SOUL (En.ki's reactive soul/mind construction). When you can separate those three parts that you consist of while being in this Patrix, you can decide what you want to do with your emotions by not reacting without thinking. When you do react rather than think, it's the synthetic soul that's talking and reacting. Override this, and consciously decide what you want to do with your emotions, and the gods will not be able to feed off of you. It's a learning process, and it's practice involved.

Question 5: If everything here is just a copy of Tiamat-- Are also animals and nature attached to Enki/Lucifer?! I can't believe this from my heart, as my love for animals and nature (+ their soul energy) feels like the only ORIGINAL/AUTHENTIC thing in this patrix. They heal me from within. But I want to be sure and don't fall for another deception, so I thought I may ask you.

Answer: Almost everything in this Patrix contain human soul energy—flowers, animals...you name it. However, everything here is also manipulated and altered; a copy and a mimic of the original that existed on Tiamaat. This includes our pets. The pets are a program of the Patrix, but they also contain our soul energy, and we'll explain:

Both when we humans are alive, and after we die, we feed the gods our soul energy. Some of it is consumed by the gods themselves, whilst some of it is recycled into the System and delegated between different animal species, insects, and flora, etc. However, most of these, including pets, overly consist of En.ki's synthetic soul/mind construct (animals are mainly reactive), but they do almost certainly have some of our recycled soul energy inside them. This is why you can communicate with them, and this is why they can work as healers—you give them your love and soul energy, which they absorb, and they are then able to give it back to you in form of healing, as you mentioned. How well your pet will interact with you depends on how much love and attention you give it. This is how we see it from our research point of view.

Question 6: Have you read the Vampire Bible?! It is written there, that the only way to exit this construct is to become a vampire yourself. What do you think about this? Also, they refer to Tiamaat as their "hometown" and they "heil" Tiamaat. I have attached you a picture of this. What do you think about it? Why would the Vampires (Archons) love Tiamaat and declare it as their hometown? This sounds horrific, as I believe that Tiamaat is (was) in reality OUR hometown? Please don't let it be just another deception...

Answer: No, we still haven't read the Vampire Bible, but it sounds to me that it is one of Marduk's "Bibles," from what you are telling us. He considers Tiamaat (and now Earth) being his, because he conquered it. Tiamaat was our planet before the Invader force came. But like any conquerors, the Invaders now consider what they have conquered being theirs.

Question 7: Narcissism/psychopathy is mentioned in your list of traps. Can you please explain why is that?

Answer: This is perhaps the biggest trap. These synthetic souls are intentionally sent down to 3-D to manipulate, distract, and traumatize us. One, of many things, that happens when we're under their influence is that we simply can't focus on what is important—our own learning and development. They are cast down into our realm as intermediaries—they are the "middle-men/women," who, when they are sucking our energy, keep some of it themselves and the remainder is feeding the gods and the System. In other words, by associating with narcs, we are giving lots of soul energy to them and the Overlords. Our trauma is their food.

Question 8: After we leave our body and we are in the BLA, is it possible for our spirit body to feel pain, or is it a matter of our belief and our will at any given time?

Answer: Yes, we can still feel pain, but not in the same way we do here in our 3-D bodies. We can still feel trauma and pain, though, which is amplified by our overlay of synthetic soul, but the genuine soul can feel this, too. Another difference from the metaphysical pain and the 3-D pain is that the former doesn't linger within a synthetic soul with amnesia, and from a genuine soul perspective; as soon as the pain/trauma are over, it is over. It only stays with us as experiences, when we've shed our synthetic/artificial soul—it doesn't subconsciously come back to the surface as triggers and reactions, like it does now. The genuine soul doesn't have amnesia and she doesn't keep things buried inside.

Question 9: Lucifer's Rebellion, the first part of the War in Heaven, had a casualty of over 650,000 on both sides so Khan En.lil, Ninurta and The Queen of the Stars lost many good beings in this manner. The most devastating weapons were used, and their Avatars were blown to pieces. This, of course, is the ultimate level of loss because we humans kill, murder, and through war terminate each other's bodies but we move on in the astral. Do you believe Wes that our prayers to Orion and elsewhere in the Spiritual Universe can be felt?

Answer: Yes, they can certainly be felt. However, it's utterly important to establish whom we pray to! There is nothing wrong with prayers—they work as intentions—but it's best to direct the prayer toward our Higher Self (Spirit) or the Divine Feminine (Source/All That Is). Then we know the prayers won't be picked up by any of the false gods, who can then trick us.

Question 10: Something that you mention, Wes, is that "Trust" is extremely important in the Orion Empire, and if a soul/spirit/mind complex goes there they need to trust you in order to gain citizenship there. Can you elaborate more on this? (Orion)

Answer: Yes, trust is important. Orion is aware that members of the human soul group can be very confused if they are not prepared for the KHAA; i.e. they might still be caught up in many of the beliefs they established here on Earth. In that state, such a human soul can't be trusted, until she is debriefed and reeducated. A soul always gets a chance to prove herself—is she making progress? If the soul refuses to let go of former destructive beliefs, she might end up not being welcome to stay in Orion. But trust goes both ways—the soul also needs to trust the Orions. If she doesn't, fact remains; why then stay there?

Question 11: Why would a superior intelligence DESIGN the genome of a race (like the Sirians) which predisposes them to have a NEED to control and dominate? The need must be very great as they have supposedly been on this path for millions of our years.

Answer: The Sirians (and other star races) were not created with a predisposition of anything—they were just soul-fires, like everybody else. Each star race has their own environment, in which they evolve. What they do with that, and what choices they make, is entirely up to them—they have freewill, too. If the Queen decided that “you can do this but not that,” the beings do not have freewill anymore. The entire KHAA can be considered an experiment in itself—an experiment in freewill, freedom, learning, and interaction.

Question 12: I was wondering about your point of the f.t. earth (shape of the planet [my comment]). There are certain words and terms we can't use, or YouTube might remove our videos—this is one of them—thus, the abbreviation). I mean I comprehend how you put it together but how come that a huge percentage of the people which present flat earth seem like utter morons and the opposite side (in the last few years) came up with really well put information, if not to say undeniable proof of curvature and a spherical earth. I just don't get it and I've been looking into this for years. I was wondering about your viewpoint on that.

Answer: The Overlords (via the Military Industrial Complex—the MIC) always play both sides. In most of our history, people have thought of the Earth as being f.t. It's mostly in the recent few hundred years that it's been portrayed as round. Of course, modern scientists have convinced everybody of a certain shape and do everything to back that up. Then, when people started pondering an f.t. world, where some researchers presented good evidence for that theory, the MIC responded by creating the F.T. Society and put out disinformation agents, who pretended to be FE-ers, but presented misleading “evidence” to intentionally sound stupid and non-scientific, and from thereon, they dominated both sides of the game. The F.T. Society is completely run by the Alphabet Agencies (MIC). If you google f.t., you will see that Google lists the disinformation agents first. You will probably need to go several pages back in the search engine in order to find some true research on f.t. And regardless, why would the MIC spend so much time to redirect people from the f.t. Earth theory if it was just pure nonsense?

Just for the record—we don't agree with everything the FE-ers say, either. When we are discussing this matter, we are presenting very old knowledge that has been passed down but been suppressed.

Question 13: Where does Enki exist now in terms of Density and Dimension? And what is he working on now in terms of agendas or missions?

Answer: En.ki probably resides in the ABZU—the Abyss. When not incarnated, he is usually in the waters above the Firmament or in the Halls of Amenti. We can't say exactly what he's up to right now, but he is, in one way or another, getting us and the planet ready for the Singularity.

Question 14: Since we've long established that the Earth is not our true birth planet but an En.ki construct, is it still as important in regard to how we connect to her? Is she even 'alive' as we've believed?

Answer: It's a good question. We don't know for sure, but it's very possible that a part of the Mother still resides within this Earth Construct. However, we must not forget that En.ki, although being portrayed as a male, is androgynous, as well. He can take on feminine attributes and use that as the Trickster god that he is. He can put an aspect of himself as Mother Earth, taking on a feminine energy. He has done that many times, as discussed in the Wes Penre Papers (WPP). In the past, he sometimes shapeshifted into the Queen, and presented himself as Her. This is told in the Artemis Story, for one.

Question 15: At the risk of sounding like En.ki's defense lawyer...do you suppose he showed compassion/love by saving us from the flood; therefore was forced to lie/go behind Ninurta junior's and Khan Enlil's back for our survival, in turn we should forever be thankful to him? Or, was it his plan all along? I'm guessing the latter.

Answer: En.ki didn't save us out of love for us—like any narcissist, he did it for his own benefit. He was seeking revenge for being demoted by the Orion Council, who passed on the leadership over the genetic engineering of Tiamaat to his brother En.lil/Ninurta. Ninurta thus became the Chief Scientist on Tiamaat. He wanted to use humanity as foot soldiers in the "future," (En.ki that is) so he can attack Orion and become the King of the Universe. He wants to destroy his mother and stepfather and usurp the throne of Orion.

Question 16: After we leave the Grid and are in the KHAA, will we have to learn new languages? How will we even communicate with each other?

Answer: In the KHAA, when we're in higher densities, and without solid, physical bodies, we mainly communicate telepathically—with thoughts. However, when we operate from that density, we can also decrease our vibrations and mingle in the 3-D part of Orion and in the Universe in general. In the lower densities (like ours and those next to ours), they communicate in words. Thus, there is an Orion language, for example. So yes, we benefit from learning other languages in the KHAA, which we will pick up quite quickly when we are not stuck in these extremely dense bodies.
